Celebrating all research outputs and every role that makes research possible

Success in academia is measured by counting publications, but many thousands of people who are vital to research are not named in publications. The hidden REF is a competition that recognises all research outputs and every role that makes research possible.

By recognising all research outputs and roles, we will create an environment in which skills can flourish and research can be advanced.

We crowd-sourced submission categories to construct a broad set of categories to recognise everyone who contributes to the success of research. Submissions opened on 14th December 2020 and will close on 14th May 2021. They will be reviewed by panels drawn from across the research community and winners will be announced in June 2021.

If you would like to enter your work, or nominate a person who has been vital to your research, please complete a submission by 14th May 2021!
